An architect is designing a house to be built in Maine. Which of the following features would maximize both passive solar heating and the amount of natural light inside the house?

A. a high gable roof
B. light-colored vinyl siding
C. solar-electric panels on the roof
D. a large number of south-facing windows