

WRITING PROMPT

There are often times in life when people feel proud of themselves. For example, this feeling of pride could result from achieving a goal after working hard or from standing up for something you believe in.

Think of a time when you were proud of yourself. In a well-developed composition, describe a time when you were proud of yourself and explain why you felt proud.