They wait under Pablo’s bed,
Rain-beaten, sun-beaten,
A scuff of green
At their tips

From when he fell
In the school yard.
He fell leaping for a football
That sailed his way.
But Pablo fell and got up,

Green on his shoes,
With the football
Out of reach.

Now it’s night.
Pablo is in bed listening
To his mother laughing
To the Mexican novelas on TV.
His shoes, twin pets
That snuggle his toes,
Are under the bed.

He should have bathed,
But he didn’t.
(Dirt rolls from his palm,
Blades of grass
Tumble from his hair.)

He wants to be
Like his shoes,
A little dirty
From the road,
A little worn

From racing to the drinking fountain
A hundred times in one day.
It takes water
To make him go,
And his shoes to get him

There. He loves his shoes,
Cloth like a sail,
Rubber like
A lifeboat on rough sea.
Pablo is tired,
Sinking into the mattress.
His eyes sting from
Grass and long words in books.
He needs eight hours
Of sleep
To cool his shoes,
The tongues hanging
Out, exhausted.
