

WRITING PROMPT

While you are going for a walk on a breezy day, the wind lifts you up and you begin flying through the air. Soon, you find yourself traveling through the air to a different land. What happens when you get there? How will you return home?

Write a story about your adventure flying to a new land. Give enough details in your story to show readers what happens.