

21

Wireless signals can be used in long-distance data communication systems. Which two components of these communication systems interact with the wireless signals that travel a long distance?

- A. source and encoder
- B. receiver and decoder
- C. destination and storage
- D. transmitter and receiver