

Creating and Sustaining Positive Learning Environments: Part I

Participants have the opportunity to earn 90 PDP or to purchase 4 graduate credits.

COURSE INFORMATION & COMMITMENTS

Experts in the field from Framingham State College will be the instructors for this series of courses. Each course is designed to be a three-credit, graduate level course, and is offered at no cost to participants. Participants who complete the course will receive 90 PDPs, and will also have the option to purchase college credit at a discounted rate through Framingham State College.

The first course, Creating and Sustaining Positive Learning Environments: Part I is a fifteen week course that provides participants with a framework for understanding how to use primary, secondary and tertiary prevention and intervention strategies to create positive classroom and school environments.

It also provides the opportunity to participate in rigorous pedagogical study and a supportive online professional community.

As a three credit graduate level course, participants are expected to dedicate between 7-10 hours per week to complete course work and interact online with other course participants and professors.

Participants enrolled in the fall 2009 course will have priority enrollment in the second course in this series. Individuals who complete both courses may have the opportunity to participate in a summer leadership seminar.
